Fund raiser for hospitalized Veterans

The Palm Beach County Women's Bowling Association N.P. will be selling a hot dog and ice cold coke for $1 in the U-Save parking lot on June 26 and 27 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days.

Proceeds from the sale will benefit hospitalized veterans. The store is located at 524 S.E. Avenue E, Belle Glade.

The league members are asking the community to support this event to help raise money for worthy vets.

Class of 1968 to hold reunion

Members of the Lake Shore Junior/Senior High School Class of 1968 are planning the 25th Class Reunion, scheduled for July 16-18.

The next meeting of the group is June 27 at 6 p.m. at the home of Willie Ann McCloude, 1396 N.W. Avenue D, Belle Glade.

To order reunion t-shirts contact Freddie Bass at 996-6343 or Mary Powell at 996-5380. To make reservations for the reunion cruise, contact Edna Stephens, 992-9122 or Willie McCloude at 996-5236.

For more information on the reunion call Sandra Daniels at 996-1600.

Gospel Concert

Mount Calvary Baptist Church, 399 Canal Street, Raderville, Belle Glade will be having a gospel concert on June 27 at 6 p.m.

There will be a "Prototype Praise Fulfillment" under the direction of Zarak Lawson. Reverend Leon Camak, Jr., pastor, invites the community to participate.

Representative for Gov. Chiles to be in Glades June 30

Chuck Wolfe, head of Governor Lawton Chiles' South Florida field office, will host Citizen Services hours on Wednesday, June 30, in the Conference Room "B" in the Belle Glade City Hall from 4 to 5 p.m.

Citizen Services aids people who have problems or concerns about state government, and guides those with concerns outside the Governor's jurisdiction to someone who can help them.

Open office hours give individuals an opportunity to ask questions or comment on the activities of the governor's office and state agencies.

Fight near Days Inn over weekend

A disturbance in an empty parking lot near the Days Inn on South Main Street is under investigation by local police.

Police were called to the scene about 11:18 p.m., Friday night on a complaint of juveniles arguing and fighting among themselves.

Officers were unable to sort out the cause of the fight, but it is still under investigation.

Groundbreaking ceremony held for new high school

Groundbreaking...67 acres near Pioneer Park will be the site for the new Glades Central High School. About 200 people were in attendance for the ceremonies for the school that is expected to open in January 1996.

Hurston Museum recruits 10-15 year olds for summer AfriCamp

Glades area youth, ages 10 to 15 years old, don't have to sit around with nothing to do this summer. They can learn Black History while having fun this summer, as the Zora Neale Hurston Roof Garden Museum offers an exciting AfriCamp program, filled with supervised games, swimming, and a lot of learning.

The AfriCamp program is scheduled to begin on Monday, July 26 and will offer a day camp in Belle Glade for two weeks, followed by a week out-of-town to participants beginning August 9. AfriCamp will train pre-teens and teenagers how to do research and will direct them in projects that will result in the publishing of local history books.

This summer's research will document the life of Lawrence Shuler, a Belle Glade pioneer who is believed to have financed the city's first bridge across the Hillsboro Canal on Main Street. Mr. Shuler's family members and elderly Belle Glade residents who remember him will be interviewed.

"We're looking forward to filling in the gaps in what we know of Lawrence Shuler -- to find out just what is fact and what is fiction among the stories we've heard," said Cartheda Konchellah, Museum C.E.O. and AfriCamp director. "It has been heartwarming to see the outpouring of information about him from the community."

The Museum has received calls from throughout the city and the county, including Shuler's great-grandchildren, his God-daughter and several associates, following an article that appeared earlier this month in the Palm Beach Post. AfriCamp participants will be co-authors of a book on Shuler that the Museum expects to publish for distribution this fall. The book, a primer, will be written for elementary school aged children, with simplified "Big Books" geared to 3-5 year old also available.

The AfriCamp program is funded in part by the Children's Services Council of Palm Beach County, the James S. and James L. Knight Foundation, the Community Foundation of Palm Beach and Martin Counties, the State of Florida, Department of Cultural Affairs, Flo Sun Inc., Florida Atlantic University, Hall, Hewko & Leibovitz, P.A., United States Sugar Corporation and professional NFL player Rickey Jackson of Pahokee. These sponsorships account for approximately 57 percent of the Museum's budget for the AfriCamp program. Additional sponsors are needed to provide scholarships for children who are unable to afford the camp tuition of $200.

Tuition is necessary because of the expenses associated with camp, Mrs. Konchellah said. "It is expensive to provide the lunches, the five days and four nights out of town and the transportation to and from our camp site in Lake Wales. But we won't turn any child away who's interested in participating. We hope that parents will work with us in helping their children to understand that learning is important, whether it occurs in or out of school."

"We expect to see our AfriCamp participants excel in school next year," she said. "And, we plan to keep up with them and help, if we can."

The AfriCamp program is open to all children without regard to race, religion or ethnicity.

For additional information call Nilwanda Brown, Hurston Museum archivist, at 996-2161.

For parents, students and educators Monday's groundbreaking ceremony for the new Glades Central High School was a welcomed sight.

The $26.7 million building, scheduled to open in January 1996, was approved in a 1986 bond issue to replace the crumbling Glades Central High School built in the 1940s.

The school board in 1987 first rejected and then accepted a site next to West Technical Education Center for the high school, which supporters said would help students learn a trade.

But, Blacks on the Serious Side, a Belle Glade advocacy group, sued in 1991 because the site was near a prison, a dump and a proposed site for sugar cane scraps.

The school board decided last year to buy the 87 acres near Pioneer Park closer to Palm Beach Community College, South Bay and central Belle Glade for $538,333. 1,100 students from South Bay and Belle Glade currently attend Glades Central High School.

Students Carla Little and Michon Wiggins of Belle Glade were excited Monday. They said they would have been scared to go to school close to a prison and they've grown tired of the run down building.

"We just want a new high school for everybody. The new generation's coming up," said Little, who's going into 10th grade. "A new high school will help promote the students to learn better in a new atmosphere."

Michon 15, agreed. "Students don't want to come to school because they say it's all torn down and stuff, and maybe if we get a new school, then maybe students will want to come."

Principal Dr. Effie Grear spoke at the groundbreaking ceremonies Monday. She said the event has been a long time coming and until she sees the actual building, she won't believe it's happening.

Farmers believe settlement of Everglades dispute is only days away

The overwhelming majority of farmers in the agricultural areas south of Lake Okechobee are very optimistic that a successful settlement of the Everglades dispute is only days away, according to the Florida Sugar Cane League.

"We are inches apart from an agreement that will set a national standard for solving environmental problems," said Andy Rackley, vice president of the League. "The conclusion of these negotiations will result in the restoration of the Florida Everglades and the preservation of 40,000 jobs in South Florida."

Farmers and representatives of the South Florida Water Management District, the U.S. Attorney's office and the State of Florida have worked diligently and cooperatively during the mediation process.

The process now moved to the national level, where Secretary of Interior Bruce Babbitt is reviewing the proposed solution.

Mediator Gerald Cormick is doing an excellent job and all sides have demonstrated their commitment to a mediated solution. Due to the complexity of the issues, it is not possible to complete the negotiations prior to the expiration of the stay of litigation today, but that fact will have no bearing on our effort to successfully conclude our negotiations.

While litigation resumes in order for all parties to protect themselves in the event mediation fails, we hope, however, to reach an agreement which ends litigation once and for all," Rackley said.

"If agreement can be reached, we predict that the great majority of farmers will agree to make painful financial sacrifices to convert to this situation, which will end years of litigation and allow public and private, efforts and financial resources to be put toward real improvements to the environment now. We believe that continued good faith discussions will result in the success we all desire," Rackley said.

Local kids enjoy Cub Scout Day Camp

The annual Glades District Cub Scout Day Camp was held last week at St. Martin's Episcopal Church in Clewiston.

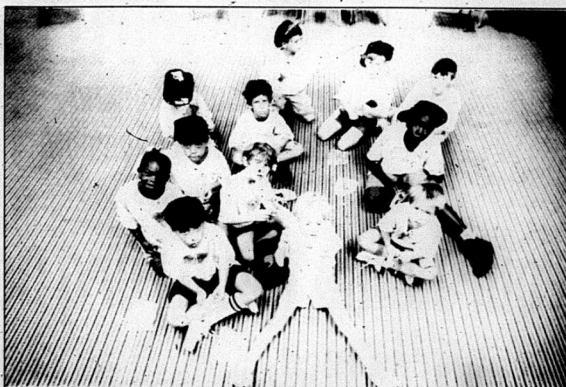

The boys enjoyed a fun-filled week of swimming, Indian crafts, soccer, songs and games, and learning to safely shoot B-B guns.

The week was topped off with a field trip to the Air Glades Airport on Friday for the always popular Egg Drop and for a chance to watch some parachute jumps and have a cookout.

Thirty Cub Scouts from South Bay, Clewiston, Belle Glade, and Pahokee participated in this year's Day Camp.

Staff members who worked hard to make the camp a success were Ardis Hammock, Alice Massey, Dollie Mayo, Della Police, Bridgette Subramanya, Becky Watson, and Leigh Woodham. Colleen and Andy Massey served as junior staff.

Interrupted while working on their Indian necklaces at the Cub Scout Day Camp in Clewiston were Cub Scouts Bradley Schlechter, 7; Jack Mayo, 8; Christopher Goggans, 7; Marlon Police, 8; Mario Gomez, 7; Clay Anderson, 7; Raj Subramanya, 8; Garrett Fletcher, 9; James Courson, 7; Wally Zaccagnino, 9; Trevor Calkins, 7. The boys are from Belle Glade, South Bay, and Clewiston.

Correction
In a front page story last week about the City of Belle Glade getting a new fire truck we inadvertently switched the numbers around. The truck is expensive, but not that expensive. The cost for the new pumper truck is $207,000, not $702,000.

A message from the president

My Fellow Americans:

On February 17, I presented to our country a national economic strategy that will create jobs, increase incomes through investments in our future, and significantly reduce the deficit. This plan is tough and is now being considered in the U.S. Senate. The Senate's vote will determine whether we will invest in the economic future of our children and grandchildren or continue with the failed economic policies of the past 12 years.

This plan will improve America's long-term economic strength, the results of which we are already beginning to see.

Once it became clear that we would take responsibility for bringing our deficit down, interest rates started to drop. If we can keep these interest rates down for a year, business analysts say we'll put over $100 billion back into the economy — lowering interest rates on consumer, car, college, home, and business loans. This means more jobs for ordinary Americans, higher business profits, better consumer confidence, and more consumer spending — all of which strengthen our economy.

Last week, unemployment fell below 7 percent for the first time in a year and a half. In just the last four months, 755,000 new jobs were created. And last month, as mortgage rates hit a 20-year low, new home sales reached a seven-year high. We're moving in the right direction. If we get our priorities right and our government house in order, more people will be able to afford houses for themselves. If we drive interest rates down, jobs and investment will keep going up.

Understanding the impact of this plan on their constituents, the U.S. House of Representatives has acted courageously and decisively to approve our economic growth plan. It's time for the Senate to do the right thing as well.

This plan is balanced and fair. It will cut the deficit by $500 billion over the next five years — the largest reduction program ever proposed. We've included $250 billion in spending cuts and more than 200 specific program reductions.

We're also proposing to raise some taxes. But this time, unlike the last 12 years, we're doing it in a fair way. Seventy-five percent of the new money comes from people with incomes above $100,000 — people who can better afford it, and whose tax rates went down in the 1980s. Middle-class Americans are asked to make a modest contribution in the form of a broad-based energy tax.

While nobody wants to pay additional taxes, the energy levy will add only a few dollars per month to household expenses. For the working poor, we want to put in place the first big block of our welfare reform program. For the first time in American history, people who work 40 hours a week and have children in their homes will be lifted above the poverty line.

Very soon, the Senate will consider my plan for the deficit reduction and economic growth. There are core principles I believe the Senate should honor when it considers this plan. We must cut the deficit by at least $100 billion over the next five years. There should be no increases in taxes without real cuts in spending.

The wealthy must pay their fair share so that we can minimize the burden on the middle class and the working poor. We must reform the welfare system and create incentives for people to move from welfare to work. Finally, we must rebuild the American economy by investing in education and training, new technologies, defense conversion, and business incentives.

The changes I am asking Congress to approve will not be easy, but our living standards are at stake and we must rise to the occasion. That is the promise of America — a community at its best provides a growing measure of prosperity for everyone who works hard and plays by the rules. Our challenge is to fulfill that promise by ensuring that as we expand opportunity and growth, everyone has a shot to earn their share.

The time is now. I hope you will support the bold changes we must make in order to strengthen our economy and ensure a strong and prosperous country for the future generations of Americans.

Bill Clinton

Ask Dr. Boltson

Dr. David Boltson is the associate director of the Western Palm Beach County Mental Health Clinic in Belle Glade, and is a licensed psychologist in private practice in Lake Worth.

Can't we all just get along?

June is in full bloom. Summer days are coming with more leisure time and more romance in the air. Observing couples around me it appears that good, solid relationships are becoming harder to find than a hurricane insurance policy in Florida.

Most people want to fall in love and be happy, yet things really seem not to work out for too many people.

People who are clever and super-successful in the business world have their embarrassing divorce details plastered all over the tabloids daily.

In addition to the divorce rate, most married couples don't really seem to find too much joy in each other.

How can this be? How can they be so smart in one area of their life, and so dumb about who they decide to marry? Either everyone is unskillfully picking the wrong person or they have the wrong expectations of their partners, of themselves, and of marriage.

Guess which choice a psychologist is going to suggest.

To misquote Tina Turner: "WHAT'S LUCK GOT TO DO WITH IT?"

I'm sure you, as well as I, have seen many obviously miserable, fighting, complaining, incompatible, resenting-each-other couples, who go ahead and get married anyway.

When they get divorced two years later, they are both baffled as to "how could we have come to this?"

Everyone else knew except the couple. Everyone else could see this coming three years in advance except for the people who got it into their heads that they were gonna get married.

I believe that luck has very little to do with it. People are selfish, and people are selfish-stupid. They don't pay attention to their own personal maturity (or lack of maturity) or to the qualities of their partner which in advance cues them that they are probably not compatible.

They are too busy thinking to themselves either "I'm lonely," "I want steady sex," "I want a family," "All my friends are already married," "I want extra income from a spouse," "I want kids," "I want someone to stay by me when I'm old, ugly, and undesirable," etc.

Some people like being in love and will convince themselves that they are in love with a person who really doesn't treat them well.

None of the previously mentioned needs are terrible for a person to have; it's just that having these needs doesn't mean that you are ready for a relationship. Just because it's no fun being lonely doesn't mean you should marry the person you are currently dating.

As a matter of fact, dating someone just because you are lonely, (or want sex, etc.) often leads to fairly unsatisfactory dating as well.

A good relationship depends not so much on what you get from your partner, but on what you are willing to give to your partner.

Now since this is June, the month of love, I want to make it clear that I think that is very possible for people to have highly satisfying, mutually loving relationships. If you have the proper attitude, you can bring joy (and understanding, and tolerance, and acceptance) to your partner and to your own life.

If you are filled with and consumed by preoccupation with your own needs and desires however, you will only engender resentment in your partner and bitterness in yourself.

Of course, if you are a nice quiet door-mat, that doesn't mean that you have a good relationship either.

Your partner needs to be as concerned with being as sensitive and giving to you as you are willing to be sensitive and giving to your partner.

So I encourage all couples out there to be happy couples.

Challenge yourself to be a better and more loving person. To quote Pastor Steven Forsythe: "Love is not so much marrying the right partner, as it is being the right partner."

'Take Pride in Lake Okeechobee Day' draws 400 volunteers

Cleaning up Lake Okeechobee's shores and encouraging the return of native wildlife and plants spurred some 400 volunteers into action for the seventh annual "Take Pride in Lake Okeechobee Day," with activities literally encircling the lake in Palm Beach, St. Lucie, Martin, Hendry, Glades and Okeechobee counties.

The event is part of the national Take Pride in America program, teaming the federal government, businesses, civic and youth groups, environmental associations and individual citizens to enhance public lands. A national Take Pride in American award-winner in 1991, The Lake Okeechobee effort is organized by an ongoing committee including representatives from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, McDonald's, the South Florida Water Management District, Reynolds Aluminum, United Telephone, BPOE 1853 Clewiston and WAFRC Radio.

The Committee already is working on its next major project: This fall's Eco-Fair for lake area elementary students. The fair builds awareness of environmental issues, with special focus on Lake Okeechobee as a key natural resource, according to Belle Glade McDonald's owner Neil Ashton, who chairs the organizing committee. More than 2,500 children attended the first fair in 1991 and some 30 businesses and associations participated. Last year's fair was cancelled due to Hurricane Andrew.

"The Eco-Fair is an opportunity for businesses and environmental groups to unite for a great cause: Teaching our kids how to preserve and protect our invaluable natural resources," Ashton said. "The organizing committee plans to expand the Fair this year, as it did the 1993 clean-up project."

"Take Pride clean-up volunteers were so successful in reducing lake-side litter in previous years that we added programs to restore the environment," Ashton said. "Volunteers placed bird feeders and nesting boxes to attract indigenous species. We also started almost 1,000 seedlings to be planted next year to re-introduce native trees such as cypress and pond apples."

The Indian River Duck Hunters Association brought the largest group of volunteers to the clean-up. Sizable groups also presented the Association of Retarded Citizens, United Telephone and Local Boy and Girl Scout troops. Many companies donated products: McDonald's provided refreshments for dozens of volunteers and United Telephone and U.S. Sugar contributed prizes for volunteers.

A special award went to Col. Terence Salt, who heads the Army Corps of Engineers' district office in Jacksonville, for his long-term support of the project. More than 100 people from the Jacksonville office made the trip with Col. Salt to help with the clean-up.

To get involved with Eco-Fair plans, call (407) 287-1382 or (813) 983-8101.

The Glades Most Convenient Store GARY'S BEVERAGE BARN

The place to go to pick up something for that late night snack or to get the one or two items you forgot at the supermarket is GARY'S BEVERAGE BARN, conveniently located at 135 North US Highway 27 in South Bay, phone 992-9220. The idea behind their business is to serve the people of this area with a wide variety of name brand merchandise, with convenient hours and with friendly service.

They have stocked their shelves with items often forgotten at the supermarket, and items we all need at unusual hours of the morning and evening. They stay open late and open up early, just to be able to serve you at these odd hours. They offer ample free parking space and fast checkout service, which adds to the reason why so many people drop in morning, noon, and nights when they're in a hurry.

Remember the name, GARY'S BEVERAGE BARN. You'll find their stock complete and their service extra friendly. They accept Visa, MasterCard, and American Express for your convenience; and they plan to install full Western Union Service in the near future. Call 992-9220 for more information. The 1993 Community Profile is pleased to recommend this fine firm to our readers. Why not stop in today?

Where Quality and Price Meet

ECONO TIRES

Se Habla Español

When the people of this area think of tires, they usually think of ECONO TIRES, located at 628 NW 16th Street (SR 715) in Belle Glade, phone 992-8590. This fine company has come to be thought of as the community's one-stop tire headquarters. They have tires for cars, trucks, recreational vehicles, tractors and four wheel drive vehicles. Radial tires for American and foreign cars can be selected from their large stock of tires.

This firm features first line, quality tires from such famous name brand companies as Springfield, Uniroyal, and General. But name brands also do not make a good dealer. Trained personnel doing quality work constitutes a major reason why this firm stands out among all the other tire dealers in this area.

At ECONO TIRES, they also use computer spin balancing, front end alignment, tire rotation, and brake service. They offer the finest frame wheels and rims, including Ultra, Eagle, and Premium.

Remember, for a dealer that's large enough to buy in volume, but small enough to give you personalized service, the 1993 Community Profile suggests you stop in at ECONO TIRES. You will be pleased with the attractive prices they can offer you on their quality products, and their service is unsurpassed!

New contractor selected for Pahokee marina

By David Ranieri
Staff Writer

The City Commission of Pahokee named Tom Tillis Tuesday night as the new contractor of the Pahokee marina.

Tillis of 125 First Street in Canal Point owns two area businesses, Kountry Kitchen and W.F. Tillis Real Estate/Mortgage.

He was interviewed along with four other prospective contractors at the city commission workshop, which was held before the commission meeting.

From the five original applicants interviewed the city commission decided to name three finalists-Alicia Agnew, John Taylor and Tillis during the commission meeting.

The city commission called for a vote. Commission members were to vote using a scoring system listing the three finalists, one being their top choice.

Tillis is considering providing bike rentals and starting a fish fry and barbecue for campers and fishermen, but he has no definite plans until he opens the facility to see what people want.

Pahokee city officials urged Tillis to consider hiring local residents at the marina.

News from the Roadrunners travel

By Lindsay Bennett

At Lake Shore Middle the motto is "Roadrunners Run On The Road To Success." Students are all encouraged to be the best that they can be and to achieve at their highest level. You may ask, "How do they have fun if they are so into academics and self-proclaimed achievement?" Well, with incentives like trips all over the world, who could help but have fun?

This year alone some students have made it to Walt Disney World, Jamaica and Washington, D.C. For the Disney Trip a 3.0 GPA and being on the honor roll for three of the four nine weeks grading period, was mandatory for all students who boarded the buses. The trip to Jamaica required being in the concert band. The band director Kenneth Jackson intills in the students to have determination, high academic achievement and a good attitude. The trip to Washington, D.C. had tough objectives. A 3.7 GPA had to be maintained and a score of 85 percent or above on the state required standardized tests that are given yearly had to be obtained.

Mr. Richard Ramsey, the principle of Lake Shore Middle and Mr. Jackson have given these trips as incentives to students to do their best every day. With over 200 students going to Disney World, 36 to Jamaica and seven to Washington, D.C., obviously it's working!

HEADACHES

Also called sick headaches, a typical migraine attack, begins with a dull throbbing ache in one area of the head and progresses to a piercing pain. These torturous attacks may be preceded by a change in the field of vision - a flickering before the eyes, flashes of light or a partial blocking of the vision. They are sometimes accompanied by nausea or vomiting. They are seldom relieved by aspirin. Their duration is from 2 to 48 hours.

Community Foundation for Palm Beach broadens funding categories

The community of Palm Beach and Martin Counties has revised its grant main guidelines, in order to sharpen its focus on projects that will play an active role in shaping the communities of the future. The new guidelines are accompanied by a $200,000 increase in the foundation's grant making allowances and an increase maximum request limit of $10,000 per grant from its unrestricted funds.

The Community Foundation added a specific focus on programs that are neighborhood driven. The Foundation believes that the successful revitalization of neighborhoods requires an array of coordinated strategies and that the best of these often emerge from within the neighborhoods themselves and should be encouraged. Additionally, in order to encourage established community groups to build on their future needs of Palm Beach and Martin Counties, the Community Foundation will favor programs that significantly strengthen the capacity of existing institutions to reach a broader segment of the community. Envisioning and community development, areas in which the foundation has made several grants, were formally added to the guidelines as categories of funding.

As one of the country's more than 325 community foundations, the Community Foundation Center Cooperating Collection for Palm Beach and Martin Counties is part of the fastest growing movement in philanthropy. The foundation serves as a pool for charitable funds to be invested for the current and future needs of Palm Beach and Martin Counties. With current assets of $27 million, the Foundation awards grants to nonprofit organizations serving the community. More than 25 million men and women in America are affected by osteoporosis—often characterized by a hunched back.

Show Your Loved Ones How Much You Care...By Pre-planning

At your death, those who remain must deal not only with the grief of your loss but also, but with the myriad decisions to be made in the planning of your final arrangements.

If you pre-plan your funeral arrangements, it will greatly simplify the difficult task of loved ones must face during this time of sorrow. YOU will make the choices of arrangements and place to be involved in your funeral, thus freeing your family of this sad duty during a time of grief and confusion.

Bring peace of mind to both yourself and your family by doing this important planning for the future. Please contact us for further information on the pre-planning of a funeral. There is no obligation—we will simply try to answer any questions you may have now to help avoid any unnecessary trauma in the future.
